Deep Inner need to know how we stack up

Lens #20: The Lens of Judgment

To decide if your game is a good judge of the players, ask yourself these questions:

- What does your game judge about the players?
- How does it communicate this judgment?
- Do players feel the judgment is fair?
- Do they care about the judgment?
- Does the judgment make them want to improve?

Theme

find a theme → reinforce it

Lens #9: The Lens of Unification

To use this lens, consider the reason behind it all. Ask yourself these questions:

- What is my theme?
- Am I using every means possible to reinforce that theme?

The Lens of Unification works very well with the Lens of the Elemental Tetrad. Use the tetrad to separate out the elements of your game, so you can more easily study them from the perspective of a unified theme.

Lens #10: The Lens of Resonance

To use the Lens of Resonance, you must look for hidden power.
Ask yourself these questions:

- What is it about my game that feels powerful and special?
- When I describe my game to people, what ideas get them really excited?
- If I had no constraints of any kind, what would this game be like?
- I have certain instincts about how this game should be. What is driving those instincts?

The Lens of Resonance is a quiet, delicate instrument. It is a tool for listening to yourself and listening to others. We bury important things deep inside ourselves, and when something causes them to resonate, it shakes us to our very core. The fact that these things are hidden gives them power, but also makes them hard for us to find.

Lens #11: The Lens of Infinite Inspiration

When you know how to listen, everybody is the guru.

– Ram Dass

To you use this lens, stop looking at your game, and stop looking at games like it. Instead, look everywhere else.

Ask yourself these questions:

- What is an experience I have had in my life that I would want to share with others?
- In what small way can I capture the essence of that experience and put it into my game?

1. How can I make a board game that uses the properties of magnets in an interesting way?
2. How can I make a videogame that tells the story of Hansel and Gretel?
3. How can I make a game that feels like a surrealist painting?
4. How can I improve on Tetris?

Lens #12: The Lens of the Problem Statement

To use this lens, think of your game as the solution to a problem.

Ask yourself these questions:

- What problem, or problems, am I really trying to solve?
- Have I been making assumptions about this game that really have nothing to do with its true purpose?
- Is a game really the best solution? Why?
- How will I be able to tell if the problem is solved?

Defining the constraints and goals for your game as a problem statement can help move you to a clear game design much more quickly.
